

EZ Real Estate Platform Disclosure

The EZ Real Estate Platform, a third-party marketing platform, employs a Transparent Open Forum approach to facilitate home sales through a transparent offer system. It's important to note that the EZ Real Estate Platform differs from an auction model, as sellers retain the autonomy to accept, negotiate, or decline any offers. The EZ platform supports a truly transparent buying and selling process that benefits buyers by giving them real-time knowledge of how many offers are on the table, what those offers are, and giving buyers the opportunity to adjust their offer amount without relying on an escalation clause. We operate as a licensed real estate brokerage in Washington State. All commission terms are open to negotiation and settled on the seller's end of the closing statement.

The EZ Real Estate Offer Addendum offers three distinct options, selected by the seller.

Option 1 involves the Buyer Premium Method, where the seller typically sets the price 6-10% below the market value. In this approach, the buyer agrees to pay a Buyer's Premium to compensate both the listing and selling agents.

As an Example: if the seller opts for a 6% buyer premium, they retain the discretion to accept, reject, or negotiate any offers after the offer event concludes. In a hypothetical scenario where the accepted offer is $500,000 and a 6% buyer premium is chosen, the final purchase price would be established. Adding the 6% buyer's premium of $30,000 to the accepted offer price of $500,000, the total purchase price documented in the MLS purchase agreement would be $530,000. The buyer's premium of $30,000 is intended to compensate both the selling and listing brokerages. Commissions move to seller side of closing statement/HUD.

Option 2, known as The Traditional Method, involves the seller determining a fair and reasonable amount to pay for listing and selling brokerage services.

This approach is preferred by sellers seeking transparency, facilitated by the EZ Real Estate Platform. Under this method, both the listing and selling sides would agree to a 1% commission to EZ Real Estate Platform based on the final purchase price, with a minimum fee of $1,500 and a maximum of $5,000.

Option 3, referred to as The Split Method, allows the seller to choose to cover the listing brokerage commission. In this scenario, the buyer's agent will use the buyer premium to compensate the selling brokerage, with the compensation amount subject to negotiation between the buyer and the buyer's agent.

This approach is employed when sellers prefer to segregate commissions. Following the conclusion of the offer process, the seller will remit the negotiated commission to the listing brokerage, and the buyer will compensate the selling office based on a negotiated agreement between both parties. These commissions will be factored into the offer accepted by the seller, thereby establishing the final sales price.
